

WALKING THROUGH

Kolio

Table of Contents

Sr. No:

Name:

- | | |
|-----|--------------------------------|
| 1. | Eesha Juneja |
| 2. | Eesha Juneja |
| 3. | Eesha Juneja |
| 4. | Rakshita Nahata |
| 5. | Ashlesha Desai |
| 6. | Rakshita Nahata |
| 7. | Vidhi Agarwal/Twinkle
Rawal |
| 8. | Twinkle Rawal |
| 9. | Vikita Shah |
| 10. | Ashlesha Desai |
| 11. | Twinkle Rawal |
| 12. | Vidhi Agarwal |

Happy eventide
A mesmerizing
road fleets Watching the building
-Eesha Juneja

Changeable high
noon A flaunt
fashion admiring
Out of majesty
-Eesha Juneja

There was once a man
who liked the ocean,
He said, " See the lovely notion! ",
It was rather vast,
But not very holdfast,
He could not resist the apparent motion.
-Eesha Juneja

I forgot the cash,
My mind is a trash,
I'll eat 5 almonds a day,
To brush my memory
every day,
So that my mind doesn't crash.
-Rakshita Nahata

There was once a man on causeway,
He said, "250 bucks you must pay!"
She said 'not more than two hundred',
And haggled, but then to his dread,
She angrily walked away.

-Ashlesha Desai

There was a girl with a bag,
Who looked at the price tag,
She sat down to take a picture,
And fixed her structure,
So she could brag.

-Rakshita Nahata

I dare you to choose The colour that you want Blue,
pink, red or what not
-Vidhi Agrawal

Which one to choose? There are pinks, greens and blues, It's just a protection from
sun,
So that we don't get cooked
into a bun,
Which one to choose?
-Twinkle Rawal

Still stands the sun Sweaty lines weeping from the body
But it's all worth it for the beauty
-Twinkle Rawal

Pleasant break of day
Different ship colour
Above the sea side.
-Vikita Shah

The dull colour grey,
Couldn't keep the smoke
at bay, It occasionally stained red, Like the dome on it's head 26th
November in Bombay.
-Ashlesha Desai

The prices touch the sky Standing right opposite the sea While we all weep
-Twinkle Rawal

Shimmer in my eyes like I'll go
blind,
How they look so undone
from the outside,
More they shine like the sun
from the inside.
Too overwhelming every sight I see.
-Vidhi Agarwal

